BRANCH OFFICE
FERTIG BLOCK,
Titusville, Pa.

MANUFACTURERS OF LAP WELDED
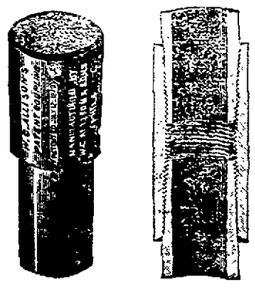
Tubing & Casing
Both Plain and Galvanized, for Oil and Salt Wells, American Charcoal Iron Boiler Tubes, Lap Welded Tubing for Steam and Water.



SOLE MANUFACTURERS OF
Oil Well Tubing.
This Superior Tubing is furnished with heavy sockets, and is cut with a vanishing screw thread, corresponding exactly with the thread in the socket, so that when screwed up it has a bearing the whole length of the joint; and the chamfer of a deep thread on the tube at the end of the socket obviates the liability to break at that point from the vibration caused by the action of the pump.
Each length and socket is stamped with our trade mark, and is carefully tested before shipment with a hydraulic pressure of 1,200 pounds to the square inch.

MANUFACTURERS OF
LAP-WELDED OIL WELL
Tubing & Casing.
We would call the particular attention of dealers and producers to this make of Tubing and Casing. One of the important features in the manufacture of our Tubing is, that the
are made perfectly straight, smooth and uniform, thereby giving equal and great strength to the tubing throughout.
Each joint carefully inspected, reamed at end, and proved with the sockets on at a hydraulic pressure of 1,200 pounds to the square inch before shipment.
Each length stamped with our trade mark,
Diamond "B."

Titusville Morning Herald.

Mr. Catcazy Does the Thing in Style.

From the New York Tribune.

If we can believe an amazing dispatch telegraphed, at a ruinous expense, to the New York World, the Grand Duke Alexis was entertained at the Russian Embassy in Washington with a repast which throws the historic banquets of Lucullus into contemptible insignificance. It is not so much the viands as the service which astound our intellect and stagger our credulity. The mere bill of fare is a modest enough little document. There were no Sorbets au Kirsch rotis nor Traffes sur roole Nilla, nor Anjiuise Champagne, such as a two-cent morning paper assures us decked his table at the Clarendon in this city; but the arrangement of the rooms and the garnishing of the festive board were on a scale of magnificence unparalleled in the experience of a World reporter. The gas, the lamps, and the candles in M. Catcazy's house had been lighted on the memorable evening ever since dusk. When the Prince arrived the gas was burning in the hall. It is characteristic of the Russian contempt for expense that there were lights also in both parlors. The table was a marvel of splendor. Fruits, flowers, and candy were set on it. "At each plate for each guest were four glasses, three for wines and one for water." All the glass was white. The plates were also white, the material being china,—none of our cheap iron-stone, but the real ware. The napkins were all marked with the Catcazy initials—showing that in the midst of this profuse liberality the noble host and hostess were not above taking precautions against loss. "On the side-tables white cloths were spread, and the silver for each course ranged in order." This obviated the necessity of shouting down the dumb-waiter whenever anybody wanted a clean plate, and gave the guests a comfortable assurance that the waiter-girl would not dip the knives and spoons in a pail of hot water, and wipe them on her apron, which is the custom, we believe, in Washington society. We should not omit to add that "extra wine-glasses, finger-glasses, &c., stood ready," and that "the plates were placed convenient to be changed at each course." We are glad the plates were changed; it is so nasty to have your bones and cold gravy just scraped off into a handy tub, and then to be started afresh with the same platter. But the most pleasing and original feature of this fairy-like repast was that "a napkin was placed in each plate, a piece of bread between its folds."

We thank our enterprising cotemporary for spreading these important particulars before the American public. It is a common belief that in the lighter refinements of social life Russia is less proficient than some other nations; but these things are sufficient to prove that in setting a dinner table she is as far in advance of the United States as a World reporter is superior to the rest of mankind in knowledge of etiquette and familiarity with the manners of the great.

An Example for Would-be Suicides.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

There is a gentleman of the middle age, who might be summoned as a witness for a walk of half a block, who assures us that there is never any sense in self-destruction. He declares that when he was a very young man he was madly in love. His love was returned; and there was every prospect of a happy result. Of a sudden, however, an event came to pass which put marriage out of the question. So what did this young gentleman (we mean the middle-aged gentleman who was at this time indicated a young gentleman), what did this infatuated young gentleman do? This is what he did. He went and purchased two horse pistols; he dressed himself in his handsomest suit of clothes, and he called at the farm house which sheltered the object of his heart's desire. It was a moonlit summer night. So what did this infatuated young man ask the young lady to do? He asked her to take a walk. The young lady—she was a very proper young lady and loved this young man quite to distraction—assented, of course, and they strolled. They strolled into a deep wood "far from the haunts of men," and out of the reach "of any voice or eye." They sat down upon a log, and this young gentleman very plainly told this young lady that they could never be man and wife, and all the whys and wherefores, which were indeed conclusive. The young lady, like an affectionate dear girl as she was, began to cry; whereupon our hero produced his two horse pistols, loaded down to the muzzle with buck shot.

"Susan," says he, and there was solemnity in his voice and a terrible earnestness in his eye.

"Susan," says he.

Susan looked up frightened to behold the murderous weapons glimmering in the moonlight.

"What are you going to do?" says she.

"I am going to get over this in thirty minutes," he says sternly, taking out his watch, "and you shall do the same thing, or I'll kill you first and then kill myself. I mean it, Susan. Don't doubt it."

She did not. She sat and mused and he sat and meditated, and time ran along with the moonbeams that trotted around the watch dial. At the end of twenty-nine minutes he said:

"Time's up. I believe I had rather live without you, Susan, than die with you. What do you say?"

"Them's my sentiments," says Susan.

"Good," says the infatuated young man, replacing his watch in his vest pocket, and firing off the two horse pistols in the air. "Let's go home and say no more about it."

They went home. Susan was married to another gentleman inside of a year. Our hero is still a bachelor—a jolly bachelor—with plenty of money and health; and he says now and then, referring to this episode in his young career:

"Now, wouldn't I have been a blasted fool if I had let the thirty minutes run out? Why, sir, Susan is old and fat and ugly, and has nine children; and as for me—why, danme, I feel as young as a gal with ribbons."

Certainly the gentleman does, and is moved beside by the sweet consciousness of having saved not only his own life but the life of an innocent young woman, and the lives of nine innocent young children, by an act of severe but practical wisdom and virtue; the which is commended to all seekers after suicide.

The Latest Nevada Sensation—A Man Falls Dead and Revives Again.

From the Virginia City (Nevada) Enterprise, November 16.

A new importation to this city kicked up such a row about town night before last that the police and many others began to think about half the people in town were dropping down dead in their tracks. First, a man had dropped down dead at a house on such a street; then a man had fallen down in a dying condition in another place, and soon it was in another place that a man "lay dying." At length it was discovered that one man was doing all the dying. He had died about half a dozen times, and had been so often restored to life that he was almost too drunk to die naturally. He first went into a house on D street, took a fit and fell so dead that with all the stimulants that could be poured down his gullet he refused to come to life until the woman of the house became half frightened out of her wits, and blew her whistle for a policeman, when lo! a miracle, the dead man got upon his pins and ran away. He next went into another house of the same class in the same street and died there, falling headlong to the floor with such utter abandon as to shake the whole house. The women were terribly frightened; they poured water on his face, bathed his head, and as fast as he revived a little turned brandy (the only thing besides whisky or gin that he could swallow) down his throat. He went for brandy like a kitten after new milk, and as soon as he had swallowed all in sight relapsed in the hope of being revived again with the congenial resuscitator. Finding that a physician had been sent for, he recovered, and got out of the house. When he next fell dead we do not know, but, during the night, he went to Scott's dance-house, on South C street, and fell dead as a door nail. Water outside and brandy inside, with talk of bringing in a policeman, set him on his pins, and he departed. He afterward went to Evan's chop-house, corner of C and Union streets, and going back to the filter, drew a glass of water, and, while trying to drink it, took two or three steps backward, jumped high in the air, then came down like a thousand of brick between the rows of tables, to the great consternation of the two waiters. There he lay at full length, his head thrown back, and only the whites of his eyes visible to all appearances, as dead as a door-nail. The boys sopped him and mopped him with cold water, rubbed his head and did all they could for him, but he was to all appearance stone dead. His face was white, no pulse could be felt, and his eyes were set in his head with not a bit of "speculation" in them. One of the waiters was about going for a doctor, when the dead man suddenly lifted his head and began laughing. Leaving the dumbfounded waiters, he stalked away, no doubt to die in some place where his favorite revivers were more likely to be found. Those who saw his performance and assisted in restoring him, say that they would have sworn that he was a dying, and then a dead man, not believing such a piece of acting possible with any human being. He seemed, they say, to have the power of instantly stopping the beating of his pulse, and of changing the healthful appearance of his face to the pallor of death.

How Some Folks Live.

HUMAN BEINGS LIVING IN WORSE THAN HOG PENS—A LIFE PICTURE IN A WESTERN CITY.

From the Detroit Free Press, Nov. 18th.

Tuesday night a quarrel arose in an old den on Franklin street, near Antoine, between several prostitutes, and the police arrested all the inmates but one, those arrested being sent to the House of Correction. One of the prisoners stood at the bar with nothing on her but a rotten and filthy old dress, and the others were but little better off, while all of them were bleer-eyed and besotted.

Yesterday, at the request of the police, our reporter paid a visit to the hog pen from which the wretches were taken, and the sights to be seen in that room can scarcely be credited. Going in through a hall there were first to be seen three or four dirty kettles and pieces of crockery, the floor was like the street, and old stove had tumbled down in the corner, and hay, straw and water covered the old floor and helped to conceal the nastiness.

There was no one to be seen, but presently a voice called out to know what was wanted, and something moved under an old quilt in a corner. A bedstead shot across the corner, every slat gone—burned up for wood—and a bundle of mould hay was piled inside the frame work. On this hay, with the tattered old quilt over her, lay the most miserable and wretched female that was ever given breath. Half her hair pulled out, her eyes swollen almost shut, her face bloated up from whisky and hard knocks, this "thing" lay there shivering and shaking, and in a worse condition than any respectable farmer would allow his hog to be kept. Before the police raid there were three more wretches just like her living in that sty, hardly ten feet square, and the orgies held there would have put cannibals to shame. The police ordered the girls to get out of the room and the house, but she could not be persuaded to go to the poor-house. That one den, with three negro families occupying other rooms, gives out an odor strong enough to make the strongest man gasp for breath, and who is responsible for such a state of things?

There are other places down there. Just beyond is a little old den, ready to fall into the street, where one family occupies the basement and another the up stairs. They all claim to be respectable—that is, no prostitutes are harbored there. Yet, from basement to roof there is a smell coming from every board and crack which would punish the nostrils of a dog, and which can only be slow death to the people who are huddled under that roof. Down stairs, the man gets drunk kicks his wife, pounds his wretched children, and up stairs a sore-eyed couple, dying of hunger and the smell, linger along as a rebuke to the men and women who send money to the other heathen over the sea.

This is not all. In the railroad alley, between Antoine and Hastings streets, exists a woman named Mary Morris, and next door another wretch named Allen. Perhaps they are not to blame for their poverty, but they are to blame for living in hog pens, when God has given every one the right to his pure fresh air out doors. There are beds of straw, floors which hide rank pools of water, stairs which were made of wood twenty years ago, but which are now held together only by the dirt and filth. This is another den of ill fame, where walking whisky bottles gather to hold carousals and conventions which would outdo the gatherings of devils. There is swill and filth scattered around the doors. There is a state of affairs inside so lonesome and wretched that no pencil can portray it. One of the women was without wood or fire, the floor covered with water, which was freezing on, and there were but two pieces of furniture in the room—a broken stove and a rickety table.

"Go to the poor-house," she shouted, when our reporter asked her why she didn't make application, "do you think I am a beggar?"

Nor is this all. There are, within the limits given, houses inhabited by human beings whose conditions are much worse than that of hogs that a comparison is not to be thought of. No one is to blame that people are allowed to lie on mouldy hay; to breathe an atmosphere worse than the odor of a sewer; to exist on food which dogs would not touch. Perhaps the Sanitary Police are not to blame; they are few in number, are overworked to get around their districts, and cannot be everywhere. Perhaps it is not required of the Board of Health to investigate unless asked to. But if these dens—these sties—are not abolished or removed, some dreadful epidemic may start from this quarter. As for the souls down there—well, who will make a move toward their enlightenment or salvation when it is so much easier to toss a dollar into the contribution box to save the benighted souls in the Fiji Islands?

A Circus and Menagerie Sale.

ELEPHANTS, LIONS AND TIGERS TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER—WHAT THE ANIMALS SOLD AT, AND WHO BOUGHT THEM.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer, Nov. 16.

It is now several weeks since those roaming impressarios whose theater is the circus tent, whose stage is the sawdust-covered ring, whose footlights are suspended half way up the center-pole, and whose baton of authority is a fourteen-foot whip, the envy of all small boys, were informed by advertisement, circular or otherwise, that the stud of horses belonging to Madame Lake's circus, together with the animals pertaining to Colonel Ames' menagerie, would be sold at public auction in this city on the 15 h of November. Both of these establishments were well known, and the announcement that they were to be sold of course caused no little flutter among the showmen, most of whom are wide awake, active fellows, always on the alert to secure some new attraction to add to the colossal establishments which they advertise so gorgeously, some unheard-of feature or sensational combination to enable them to draw still more upon the indulgent public for its patonage.

Well, yesterday was the day of sale, and the old rink building on Freeman street, opposite Lincoln Park, the scene of operation. As early as 9 o'clock the showmen began to arrive, and by 10 the crowd in attendance was considered large enough to justify proceeding with the sale. Prominent among the crowd were to be seen Mr. J. M. French, of the Great American circus, which bears his name; the veteran John Ames, father of the "Colonel," whose animals were on the bills; Mr. J. E. Warner, of Warner & Co.'s menagerie and circus; Mr. J. T. Johnson, whose Hyppo-something-or-another is now in Covington; Mr. J. E. Cooper, of Hemmings and Cooper's show; Mr. Lewis Sells, who is just commencing the business at Columbus, Ohio, and last and perhaps greatest, our own great and only John Robison. Others there were also, and numbers of them doubtless, but they failed to make themselves prominent by squandering their ducats in jungleneat or horses. Several ladies also graced the occasion with their presence, and manifested

GERMANY AND FRANCE.

A dispatch from Berlin says that the public mind is disturbed in view of the diplomatic attitude of Germany towards France. Bismarck privately advocates the continuance of a system of military preparation for war, and the recent action of the Reichstrag in prolonging the military budget in war estimate contemplates the speedy reoccupation of French departments by the Germans. Bismarck advocates this movement for the reason that he sees that the tenure of authority by the Thiers government is very precarious.

SEVENTY-FIVE LIVES LOST.

A special from Alexandria, Egypt, dated November 23, says that a terrible catastrophe had occurred in the harbor off that port in consequence of a collision between two steamers carrying passengers and mails, met with great force, and the sinking resulted in the death of seventy-five Algerian pilgrims by drowning. The men were overburdened with gold, the weight of which rendered their efforts to swim unavailing, indeed impossible.

DAMAGES RECOVERED.

In the Marine Court, yesterday, in suit brought by J. Polk, actor, against Mr. Daly, of the Fifth Avenue Theatre, for amount of salary due Polk from the time of his discharge on account of his refusal to play a certain part on the ground that it was not in his line until the close of the season. Judgment was recovered for $688, his salary having been $65 a week.

THE NEW COLLECTOR, ARTHUR

has not yet received his commission from Washington and Murphy continues to discharge the duties of Collector.

THE NEW ORDER OF ARREST

for Ingersoll, Garvey and Woodward was issued by Judge Learned, at Albany, fixing the bail at $500,000 each, and made returnable December 5th, to the Bureau of Municipal Correction, of which O'Connor is at the head. The order excluding the time for justification of his bail was based upon an affidavit made by one of Tweed's lawyers directing that Tweed has been advised by his counsel to move, and in good faith intended to move for a reduction of bail, and vacate the order of arrest. It is stated that Tweed has applied to the company in which his life is insured for permission to travel beyond the seas. The property of Garvey, which is for sale at a great reduction finds no buyers, owing to a supposed insecurity of the title.

MINISTER SCHENCK.

A Herald Washington dispatch says that Minister Schenck will be recalled in a very short time, when Secretary Fish will succeed him. There seems to be nothing in the law preventing a minister engaging in trade and speculation. Custom and dignity, however, has prohibited a minister from assuming business or speculative position.

Horace Greeley stated in the Tribune that Schenck should not be condemned unheard, as men as able and worthy as he is are not so abundant that we can afford to crush on blind presumption.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

The counting in of Tammany candidates for alderman, is said to be owing to the Board of Supervisors having been in collusion with the poll clerks in their alterations of returns.

THE GRAND DUKE

Ex-Comptroller Connolly was arrested at noon on a charge of fraud. The arrest being unexpected to him, no bail was ready. He is endeavoring to find the required bail.

LATER.—Connolly's arrest to-day created quite a flutter at City Hall, and shortly after it became public was generally talked about throughout the city. The arrest was made by Sheriff Brennan in person, and Connolly was taken wholly by surprise. The arrest was based on the same summons as that used in the case of Tweed, Ingersoll, Garvey and Woodward, Connolly's name being added to the others afterwards. Connolly started in search of bondsmen, he being in charge of a deputy sheriff. It was announced late in the afternoon that Eugene Kelley, banker, who is reported worth eleven mill ons, would give bail.

THE FISK-MANSFIELD CASE.

The libel suit of Miss Mansfield against James Fisk, Jr., came up again to-day in the Yorkville Police Court. The courtroom was filled with spectators at the opening, and Miss Mansfield's entry, in company with a female relative, created a sensation. Shortly after Fisk put in an appearance. Assistant District Attorney Fellows, for the prosecution, asked that the court compel the defence to produce the original paper published by Fisk, and which was the cause of the libel.

Fisk's counsel argued against the propriety of this demand, saying they did not have the paper in their possession.

Beach, one of Fisk's counsel, asked that the court would exclude McKean as counsel for Miss Mansfield, who appeared by courtesy of the District Attorney.

Mr. McKean defended his right to be present, but he was subordinate to the District Attorney, and made personal remarks with regard to Fisk, who, said he thought he owned New York and New Jersey, and even the legislatures, and the sooner we got rid of such a person the better.

Miss Mansfield was then placed upon the witness stand. She testified that a waiter named King had left her employ and went into the service of Fisk. The affidavit made by King had been served upon her; it was false.

Portions of the affidavit, which have been already published, were read in court.

At the close of the examination of Miss Mansfield, on the application of Beach, Fisk was permitted to leave the court on account of business engagements.

Miss Mansfield testified further to her past history. She was born in Boston, is twenty-four of years; has resided in New York since 1867; before that at Philadelphia; was married in San Francisco, in 1864, to Frank Lawlon, who is still living.

A good deal of argument here followed between counsel, the prosecution objecting to the course of the examination, and protested against the preparation of a scandal for the public.

She first met Fisk at the house of a friend; he had got her apartments in the American Club House; she had received letters from Fisk, and continued: I have yet some of the letters; I never gave any away; I don't know how many I yet have, could not tell; suppose I have five hundred left; I had some property, personal, when I got acquainted with Fisk; I had no bank account, but I certainly was not poor; I have always been well cared for; I was not supported by Fisk personally at the American Club House; the money for my support came to me through stock operations carried on by William H. Marston with money furnished by Fisk; the money thus received amounted to $200 or $300 a week; after leaving the Club House I went to live in Jersey City, and received money while there through the Erie railroad from Fisk, who lived there with me.

After further testimony, the case was adjourned to December 23. Peter B. Sweeney, who will be a witness in the case, was present at court.

New York Dry Goods Market.

NEW YORK, Nov 25.

There is little or no important change in the market, though prices are well sustained. Raw materials are scarce and advancing both here and in Europe. The colonist wools are those which have just opened in London of fine Cape and Australian wools have opened at an advance of one penny per pound, with a tendency toward still higher rates. Worsted wools are very scarce. All materials made from the same are likely to command high prices during the ensuing spring. Fancy cassimeres in light spring weights are less animated, but held with more firmness. Heavy woolens are in better request. Apart from flannels, which keep well sold up, prices are relatively low as compared with raw material, which is getting very scarce, especially medium and X fleeces, which is most sought after at present. In cotton goods the changes are slight; all staples are steady at 12¼@13c. for heavy brown sheetings; 13¾@14½c for light and heavy brown drills; these are extreme. New York mills muslins are steady at 21c; wamsutta, 20c; Tuscarora, 18c; and fancy prints at 11½c.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The numerous failures among insurance companies throughout the United States, consequent upon the recent Chicago fire, have created a general and somewhat exaggerated feeling of distrust as to the reliability of all companies affected by that calamity.

In order to relieve this doubt, so far as it applies to them, the Niagara and Republic Fire Insurance companies, of New York, invited an official investigation of their condition, the result of which appears in the following certificate:

"INSURANCE DEPARTMENT,
ALBANY, Nov. 1, 1871.

"At the request of the Niagara and Republic Fire Insurance companies of the city of New York, in view of the recent disaster at Chicago, I have officially examined their condition, and find it such as to justify the entire confidence of the public.

Arrest Decay.

When a plant or a tree begins to decay it must needs die. It cannot be revitalized. But it is not so with human beings. A human rain can be repaired, strengthened, restored, though a brown leaf or a withered blade of grass can never be made green again. In the autumn of life, or even in its winter, when nature seems to be giving way under the pressure of years, it is still possible to retard the progress of decay, and to lend to age more than its wonted vigor. As a means of promoting this object, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is unquestionably the most potent of all restoratives. It will not make the old young but it will prevent, lessen, or sooth the infirmities which are the usual accompaniments of the decline of life. For debility and a lack of nervous power, from whatever cause arising, it is the medicine that of all others before the world best deserves the name of a specific. In purity, in invigorating properties, in its adaptation to weak stomachs and feeble organizations, it has no competitor among the tonics of the pharmacopoeia, nor among proprietory remedies. Besides its strengthening principle, it possesses alterative and regulating properties of the highest order, and as an anti-bilious medicine is far preferable to any of the preparations containing mercury. Time has shown that for physical decay, nervous debility, dyspepsia, bilious disorders and intermittent fever, Hostetter's Bitters is a remedy without a rival. This is the season of the fall of the leaf; let it remind the old, the feeble, and the sickly to invigorate and regulate their systems with this great vegetable tonic and alterative.

The Pennsylvania Transportation Company having succeeded to the business of the Allegheny Transportation Company, and the Commonwealth Oil and Pipe Company, all orders for oil should hereafter be made upon the Pennsylvania Transportation Company, who will make good any of the accepted orders of either the Allegheny Transportation Company or the Commonwealth Oil and Pipe Company.

November 19, 1871.

ILLNESS OF ADNAH NEYHART.—A dispatch from Philadelphia yesterday announces the dangerous illness of Mr. Adnah Neyhart, of the well known firm of Pierce & Neyhart, and Neyhart & Grandin, of Tidioute. Mrs. Neyhart started for Philadelphia last evening.

BROKE THROUGH THE SIDEWALK.—As the hose cart was being taken home from the fire last evening, it broke through the pavement in front of Ullmans & Bros. dry goods store on Franklin street. The damage was speedily repaired by the Chief Engineer, and the large cave was planked over.

ACCIDENT TO A BRAKEMAN.—A brakeman by the name of John Fulton engaged on the Oil Creek and Allegheny Valley Road got his right hand badly smashed while coupling cars in the car yard at Tidioute. The mutilated member was amputated. Young Fulton was a general favorite and his misfortune is is greatly lamented.

A HOTEL BOILER EXPLOSION.—A fatal accident occurred on the Reuben Scott farm, Fagundus, on Saturday morning last, at 3 a. m. The driller on the well, Mr. McCarthy, who was on the derrick at the time, was instantly killed, but the engineer, who was sitting by the side of the boiler, was badly scalded, but is not dangerously injured. Mr. McCarthy lingered for five hours till death put an end to his intense sufferings.

THE MANNING MINSTRELS TO-NIGHT.—This celebrated troupe from the Dearborn Street Theatre Chicago, will appear at the Parshall Opera-house this evening. They are composed of twenty-five selected artists, and lots of fun may be anticipated. Billy Manning, the well-known comedian, is a host in himself, and has earned a widespread popularity, in his comical and farsical renditions. The troupe made a decided hit when they were here before, and will be cordially welcomed again. They appear for one night only.

NEW HOTEL.—Messrs. W. H. & J. H. Sink, well-known caterers to the public, and popular landlords, have recently opened the Sherman House on Spring street in this city, and are prepared to furnish neat and comfortable rooms and first-class board to all who may desire the same. This house has been lately fitted up, and includes the Moore House, a former favorite resort of the public, but with the entrance on Spring street, opposite the Postoffice. John McDonald, an old hand at the business, officiates behind the desk.

BILLIARDS.—A match game of billiards of 1,500 points will be played in the Corinthian Hall Billiard Parlor, to-morrow (Tuesday) evening, between Mr. Eugene Carter, of Toledo, and Mr. Fred Fields, of Grand Rapids, for $500 a side, the game to be the four ball American carom game, on a 5½ by 11 table with 2⅜ ball, push and crotch barred. Fields is to give Carter odds of 250 points. Both of the above named gentlemen are fine players, and a lively time is expected. Game to commence at eight.

FIRE AT MORELAND & CO'S. REFINERY.—About half past five o'clock yesterday afternoon, the gas in the tar still tail house, at Morelands & Co's. Refinery exploded, with a report which was heard all over the lower part of the city, and the tar immediately ignited. In a few moments the steam jet attached to this portion of the works was turned on, but the sides of the house having been blown out, it did not extinguish the fire. Two powerful steams of water were therefore brought to bear upon the burning tar, which kept the flames in subjection until the arrival of the Fire Department. The steamer Colonel Drake, took up a position on the north side of the creek, and the boys rendered valuable assistance in cooling down the tar stills, and finally extinguishing the flames. The loss was very trifling, nothing being destroyed but the wood work of the tail house, and a few barrels of tar.

SALE OF A VALUABLE PATENT.—We lately noticed a patent process exhibited here by Mr. B O'Brien, of Lockport, N. Y., for manufacturing a paint oil from petroleum which was claimed to fully equal the linseed oil for mixing paints. Mr. O'Brien demonstrated the process to a number of refiners in Titusville, but his negotiations for the sale of the patent here were suspended by a call to New York, and last week a sale was effected to parties in that city. The purchasers pay $75,000 for three-fourths of the patent, and furnish the requisite capital to manufacture at least one hundred barrels of the oil per day. Mr. O'Brien receives $25,000 cash in hand and $2 00 per barrel on all oil sold until the balance $50,000 is paid. He also retains a one-fourth interest in the patent, receiving one-fourth of the net profits. During the present week the works of Mr. O'Brien will be removed from Lockport to New York, where the new company will at once engage in the manufacture of the oil on an extensive scale.

Varieties.

It is said that, with but few exceptions, the members of the audience who retained their presence of mind in the Opera-house on the night of the Roberts Block disaster, were the ladies. When the male portion of the audience started for the door, and a regular stampede was imminent, the ladies supposed it was only the usual rush "to see a man," which is so frequent an occurrence, between the acts, and remained perfectly calm, while the fact that the rush occurred during the play, was attributed to the unusually dry autumn and the great fires in the west.

—Lydia Thompson is "never ceasing to love" in Buffalo. It is rumored that the city parents of the male persuasion contemplate presenting her with a grain elevator, but she says that no tribute of affection from "Buff," can take the place of the oil barrel and derrick that she received in Titusville. There are a few "grain elevators" in this city that could well be spared without depreciating the value of city lots. They elevate the grain in the liquid state with the regularity of steam work, and so complete is the system, that the mere crooking of the pregnant hinges of the elbow occasions an instantaneous relaxation of the muscles of the mouth, which instantly flies open. But it is anything but thrift that follows such yawning.

—Navigation for the season is rapidly drawing to a close. It was rumored that a large fleet of whalers were crushed by the ice on Saturday off the mouth of Church Run, but later dispatches report that the rumor arose from the fact that a couple of schoolmasters were dunned for their ice bill in that vicinity. Their hopes of a winter overcoat were crushed by this occurrence, but "whaling" will be continued as heretofore, notwithstanding the increased yield of blubber on the part of the schools of whale (3).

—The boarders and guests of the Parshall house, will demolish their accustomed turkey on Thanksgiving day, at the hour of 5 p. m. A magnificent repast will be served, and in the evening dancing and music will follow. No formal invitations have been issued, but the dinner and festivities will be enjoyed by the guests of the Parshall house and their friends.

—That "proud bird of freedom," the Thanksgiving turkey, meets with a sad fate about this time of the year, and stale jokes about "going through Turkey, and slipping through Greece," are floating around in the current of newspaper items. Printers with an eye to "fat," "gobble" the best of these "merry thoughts," and keep them standing on the back galleys for future use.

—The "young folks" of this city are a trifle late in their commencement of winter festivities, but we are assured that a gay season of balls and parties is contemplated, the opening entertainment being announced to come off on Tuesday evening, December 12th, at the Mansion house, and will consist of a masquerade party and hop.

—Ben Hogan, of pugilistic celebrity, and who, during the summer, served as Captain of an iron clad "bun goat" on the Allegheny river at Parkers, occasionally gets a notice in the papers. He is now keeping a boarding house for "whited sepulchres" near Parkers, and last week, an evenings festivities were heightened by a white man's getting shot by a colored man, while both were whiling the happy hours away, in the gin-scented walls of Ben's palatial ranche. Unfortunately the shot was not fatal, and all hands live to consume the surplus stock of needlegun whiskey with which some parts of the oil region are flooded.

—Parlor skating is the latest amusement for those who are skilled in the use of roller skates, and whose performances on ice are confined to a pasture that thaws the congealed liquid, and chills their hopes. We have tried this "parlor skating," and pronounce it a humbug, for besides chipping off several dollars worth of veneering from the piano with our head, cutting a "spread eagle" through a gilt-edged mirror, feet foremost, and performing a chiropodical operation on our wife's feet with the skates, we broke through the cellar door and were nearly drowned in a barrel of corned beef brine. No more parlor skating for us, unless the walls are padded and the doors effectually bar the entrance to the briny deep.

POSTAL MATTERS.—Attention is called to the postal announcement in another column. The plan of giving in alphabetical order, the names of the principal places to and from which the largest number of letters are sent and received, is a new feature. The enumerated places are indices generally, by which the time of mails to or from any part of the United States can be readily ascertained. For instance, all matter for places west of Cleveland or Chicago will be the same as to those places; to Western and central New York, the same as to Buffalo and Rochester; to Eastern Pennsylvania, Maryland, and the Southern Atlantic States, the same as to Philadelphia and Washington; to the New England States, same as to New York and Boston, &c., &c.

It is a matter of regret with the Postmaster that the office cannot be opened at an earlier hour in the morning, but the distribution of the New York and other important mails prevents. Holders of lock-boxes, however, can have access to their mails at any time after 7 a. m. The closing hour has been extended to ten minutes past 8. The business of the office is largely increasing, being fully double what it was in 1869, as shown by a comparison of the account of stamps canceled then and now.

An important change in the dispatch of mails to Philadelphia begins to-day. Heretofore the second mail for that place has closed at 3 45 p m. It will now close at 8 p. m., and be sent on the night express north, leaving this city at 9:02 p. m., and reaching Philadelphia at 3:30 p. m. of the next day.

It is claimed, and justly too we think, that Titusville now has as good, if not better postal facilities, than any city in the country, off from the great main lines of railroads. We have two mails per day to and from New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Harrisburgh, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago, Cleveland, Meadville, Oil City, Erie, Corry, Buffalo and the principal places in the vicinity of the above mentioned cities. Letters have been mailed here at 10 a. m. for New York and answers received before 3 p. m. of the second day after. Letters mailed in Chicago in the afternoon in time for the 9 o'clock train, are received here at 7:30 the next evening.

THANKSGIVING services will be held in the Presbyterian church on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Sermon by Rev. A. Sinclair.

Similar services at the St James' Memorial church, sermon by Rev. Henry Purdon.

THE congregations of the Baptist and Methodist churches will meet in the latter church, and a brief sermon will be delivered by the pastor of each church.

PETROLEUM AS FUEL.

Editors Morning Herald:

GENTS:—On returning to Titusville after a short absence, I find in your paper of the 20th Professor Minetti's reply to "Why Petroleum is Not Used for Fuel."

While the writer thoroughly appreciates the courtesy with which Professor Minetti states his difference in opinion, he must take the same exceptions to the reply that he does to the many preceding attempts to throw light upon the subject; and that is the absence of facts and figures, and lack of anything but general statements. We have been hearing for years past what wonders were to be accomplished in this direction; of ingenious contrivances that would revolutionize all systems of heating. But until the facts and results stated in my former article (that while the heating power of a pound of petroleum is less than two and a half times that of coal its cost is at present six times as great,) until this difference is made even or disproved by actual practice, it is useless to look elsewhere for the causes of past failures.

Almost from the beginning of the oil developement operators understood that it would be a capital thing to burn oil instead of coal—and the inventive genius of the oil country has always been equal to the task of bringing to a successful application any real practical thought of improvement.

Should any one make an economical application of oil as a fuel, it would prove second in profit only to the Roberts torpedo, and had it been practicable to do so, the go-ahead operators of this section would have accomplished it before this—the bar of their success being the stubborn underlying fact that the increased heating power of oil would not cover its much greater cost.

Concerning the use of Mr. Stimer's figures as the results of his experiments in Colonel Foot's apparatus, it may be well to remark that they were unquestionably as favorable as possible to the invention in question, and, therefore, necessarily impartial for use on the opposite side; that they were carefully prepared is evident—beside being witnessed and endorsed by a large number of eminent engineers.

All this, however, would not have satisfied the writer in accepting them, did they not agree with the results of many similar experiments made under his own observation.

The application of petroleum to the smelting of iron, is a separate question from its use as fuel in the ordinary way! Any success in this direction does not prove increased heating capacity, but is undoubtedly due to the peculiar manner in which the flame in the furnace can be applied.

To Professor Minette and the few men of known scientific standing in the outside world, who have been bold enough to undertake the solution of our many "oil problems," our thanks are unhesitatingly due; but they must bear with us when with a contracted view," we ask for facts and practical results instead of broad and general statements.

If Professor Minetti has any invention that will accomplish the object in view, let us have it and see it tested, like all the rest, and then take its place with them, in the museum of curiosity.

The use of shale oil, or of a compound of any kind of which petroleum is a member, is not patent to the subject under discussion; and, therefore, need not be touched upon! The only hope for the use of petroleum as fuel, (setting aside the qestion of economy) seems to lie in the construction of a boiler—that shall have a strong draft—shall nevertheless retain the heat engendered, and yet not soot up—qualities all very difficult to combine. To the happy man, (whoever he may be,) who will accomplish this, we would say, let your invention come to us without trumpeting, but on its own well-tested merits, remembering that the proof of the pudding, is verily in the eating thereof

MR VAN. ULLRICH'S EXPLANATION OF THE LATE CALAMITY.

Editors Morning Herald:

In compliance with the request of numerous citizens that I should publish my own views with reference to the fall of the Roberts building, I respectfully submit the following:

The east wall, adjoining the Parshall Opera-house, rested on a gravel bed, averaging eleven and a half feet below the level of the street. The footings on which the Parshall basement wall rested were found to project six to eight inches in some places, and to run underneath the wall in others. The basement wall also projected from one to seven inches on the Roberts line. No alternative was therefore left but to build partly on the Parshall footings and basement wall and partly on the new footings and new stone wall of Roberts. The superincumbent weight resting on this foundation would have been, when the building was completed, 21,251 pounds to the superficial foot. All walls settle more or less, depending on their weight and on the nature of the ground on which they rest. It was not possible that this foundation could have settled sufficiently to cause the wall to fall, if it had not been totally submerged by a flood, which found access from the open sewer and filled the cellar to a depth of from three to five feet for several days. It will be found when the debris is removed that the settlement has been very considerable. The three front piers adjoining the east wall, where the stream of water from the sewer entered, have also settled, showing that the foundation on the east side was affected by the flood more than the other foundations. These sewers were flooded for the purpose of settling the earth after the tile was covered.

I would say that hundreds of miles of sewers have been laid under my professional supervision, and I have seen sewers put down in many of the largest cities of the country, but Titusville is the first place where I have ever seen the flooding of trenches several feet beneath the foundations of buildings for the purpose of settling the superincumbent earth as it is thrown in. In such cases the earth is invariably tamped down, and not washed down with water. How much the Roberts foundation may have settled from this cause, and how much from the subsequent flood, it would be impossible to determine, but that the water on both occasions found its way from the sewer into the basement, and was the prime cause of the catastrophe, is in my opinion a matter of certainty. I could say a great deal more upon this subject were it not for trespassing on your columns. I think I have clearly shown the cause of the accident, which is all I have been requested to do, and while expressing my deep and heartfelt sorrow at the loss of life and property already entailed, I feel truly thankful to an overruling Providence that it was not more disastrous.

Respectfully yours,
WM. VANULRICH,
Architect and Civil Engineer.

ALLOPATH VS. HOMEOPATH.

Editors Morning Herald:

As your paper has taken a "medical" turn lately, it may be appropriate to call attention to the "flare-up" which has occurred in the Massachusetts Medical Society, over the attempt of some of the allopaths to turn out the homeopaths. Sixty members of the society are to be prosecuted for practicing or professing to "practice according to an exclusive theory or dogma;" that is, the allopaths practically deny that the homeopaths have any claim to be recognized as physicians, and must be excluded from the State Medical Society. Now it is well known that some of our own allopaths avail themselves of the homeopathic practice.

The writer of this believes in allopathy as a rule, yet is not prepared to reject homeopathic science, for he has witnessed its beneficial effects in many instances. I believe there are cases which require allopathic treatment, and would not yield to homeopathy, and vice versa, and I have heard eminent physicians who had studied and were thoroughly versed in both branches of practice, express the same views. Why then should our Allopath Medical Associations "put up the bars," so to speak, against a rival school of medicine when they are perfectly well assured of its virtues, and covertly employ the same agencies in their own practice.

The row which has broken out in the Massachusetts Medical Society will doubtless result in a very interesting and long winded controversy. That's what the New Englanders doat upon, and as the allopaths are the aggressors in this case, public sympathy will naturally be diverted to the homeopaths. But "who shall decide when doctors disagree?"

SUGGESTION.

Editors Morning Herald:

Our street-crossings were in a shocking condition yesterday, the mud and water ankle deep. This was a great annoyance to the ladies and all who had to plash and splatter over the roads to get to church. It seems useless to appeal to the authorities. The Street Superintendent might hire a brigade of boot-blacks to scrape the crossings for a trifle. It is dull times now with this tribe of "gamins," and they would jump at such a chance. But if the Street Commissioner did not pay them a cent they would make more from passers-by at such a job than in "shining boots" this weather. Get a hoe and broom, boys, and see if it don't pay.

PEDESTRIAN.

DEATH OF GEORGE C. PRATHER—We learn, by a special dispatch, that Mr. George C. Prather died at his residence in Plumer, Pennsylvania, yesterday, 24th The funeral will take place at his late residence on the 27th inst, at 12 m.—Derrick.

Mr. Prather was well-known throughout the oil region, and especially in the vicinity of Plumer, where he has resided for many years. In 1865 he became one of the owners of the Thomas Holmden farm at Pithole, which was at that time one of the largest oil producing farms in the region. Nearly the entire portion of the city of Pithole was situated on this farm, and the revenue derived at one time from rent and royalty were immense.

The celebrated United States' well was struck upon this farm in January, 1865, and was followed shortly after by the "Twin wells." George C. Prather and Thomas Duncan purchased the fee of the Holmden farm for $75,000, which in the fall of 1866 possessed a population of six thousand souls, and yielded a ground rent of $60,000 per year, and a daily oil product of four thousand barrels. In 1866 Messrs. Philpot, Sherman, and Pickett purchased Messrs. Prather and Duncan's interest for $1,300,000, and it was afterwards sold for $1,500,000, but owing to the depreciation of property, proved a hard bargain for the last owners, the Chicago and Alleghany Oil company, and Samuel J. Walker, of Chicago. The recent death of Mr. Duncan in Europe was followed last week by the death of his former partner, Mr. George C. Prather, who was a man of most exemplary character; and leaves a large circle of friends to mourn his decease, which occurred while he was in the prime of life, and with the most flattering prospects of a happy and prosperous future.

NEW ROCHESTER NEWSPAPER—We learn through private sources that a new first-class daily morning paper is soon to be started in Rochester, New York. The experiment of sustaining such an enterprise has been very thoroughly tried, the last effort being the Chronicle, undertaken by a stock company. It, however, failed, after a year's trial, and was then merged in the Democrat. The Chronicle, notwithstanding, enjoyed a brilliant career under the management of C. S. Collins, and at the time of its suspension was reported to be self-sustaining. It will require the very ablest professional efforts to rival the present Democrat and Chronicle, which stands in the foremost rank of New York inland journals.

OUR exchanges speak of a new swindling game, which consists in an agents calling at a house and displaying a number of sealed envelopes containing samples of silk, merino, calico, etc., collecting twenty-five cents for a choice, and promising to send a dress pattern like the sample in the envelope chosen for the small sum of one dollar, but neither man nor dress is ever seen afterwards.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE—The last two numbers (1432 and 1433) of the Living Age contain, among other notable articles, the following: Aerial Voyages, British Quarterly Review; Bearings of Modern Science on Art, Westminster Review; The Pilgrim Fathers, Westminster Review; The Iceberg Lake of the Aletsch Glacier, Spectator; The Famine in Persia, Spectator; The American Press, Saturday Review; Letters and Letter Writing, British Quarterly Review; An American Cookery Book, Spectator; Geoffrey Chaucer, Westminster Review; Prospects of Italy, Saturday Review; Death of the Duc d'Orleans, Pall Mall Gazette; Miss Brown, Chambers' Journal; Parts III and IV of the Maid of Sker, Blackwood's Magazine; etc, etc. The subscription price of The Living Age is $8 a year, or for $10 any one of the American $4 magazines is sent with The Living Age for a year. Lecture Platform.

—The German patriot Hecker is soon to take the lecture platform. Mr. Hecker played a distinguished part in the Baden revolution of 1848, and is very popularly known among his fellow-countrymen on this side the Atlantic. The subject of his lecture is, "Our Republic—her Critics and Adversaries," and it will be first delivered before the German Turner Association of Rochester, New York.

—Oil City is to have a lecture from De Cordova, the humorist, December 1st; from Josh Billings December 13th; and from General Kilpatrick December 22d. The winter course will be opened by Lisa Weber, November 29th.

—Professor Morton, President of the Stevens' Institution of Technology at Hoboken, opened the annual series of American institute lectures, New York, last week, his subject being the "Nature and Source of Light." After describing the manner in which light was formed, the lecturer made several beautiful chemical illustrations of the different kinds of light. One he termed the electric light, which had the appearance of a minature sun, and had a dazzling effect on the eye. He also showed the manner in which lightning was formed, and rendered invisible light visible. The latter experiment was conducted with a number of glass globes filled with chemical liquids through which the light, at first invisible, passed and was made transparent to the eye. A scientific lecture in our Titusville "winter course" would lend agreeable variety to the programme already announced.

—Mark Twain's lecture about Artemus Ward has been delivered in Washington, Boston, New York and other places, and received with much favor. It has much of the inimitable humorist's drollery, while at the same time it gives—though incidentally—the prominent events connected with the life of the lamented Charles F. Brown. Artemus Ward's lecture and panorama of Salt Lake, were rendered in Titusville in the Bliss opera house, 1866 Everybody who attended that performance will recognize the following portraiture: "His personal appearance was not like that of Maine men. He looked like a glove-stretcher. His hair, red, and brushed well forward at the sides, reminded one of a divided flame. His nose rambled on aggressively before him, with all the strength and determination of a cow-catcher, while his red mustache—to follow out the simile—seemed not unlike the unfortunate cow itself."

—Horace Greeley will, on Thursday evening next, tell the people of Long Branch what he knows about "Wit." It is not Horace's worst hold, but the title of the philosopher's lecture might just as well be the modern journalist, but then everybody would willingly sacrifice a quarter to see Horace, lecture or no lecture. Long Branch will probably give him as grand a "rally" as its population admits of doing.

—The lecture delivered by Mrs. Victoria Woodhull, in New York, last week, was a very disgraceful affair. Theodore Tilton, in introducing her, thought it necessary to vouch for her virtue, a rather remarkable proceeding, whether considered as a matter of knowledge or of taste. Free love, in its broadest sense, was openly avowed, the laws regulating marriage denounced, and matters generally declared to be wrong. Love marriages, and these only, were advocated; and when love fails, then the contract should be dissolved. Such are some of the sentiments enunciated. Hisses and applause greeted their enunciation, and a sister of Mrs. Woodhull rose in her place and openly denounced them. Altogether, it was a strange proceeding. The Pittsburgh Dispatch says the lecture is to be repeated in that city, and the question that staggers them is "Who will introduce her?" Somebody had better do it, or she will make the smoky city smudge. She says in her advertisement, "the cowardly knaves who have slandered her are requested, if they can summon courage, to take front seats."

But Victoria is not the only strong-minded, long-winded oratrix who evokes journalistic censure for her unfemine antics upon the lyceum platform. An exchange says:

There must be some subtle relation between matrimonial rows and the art of elocution. Else, why do so many ladies whose reputations have been perfumed with amatory scandal feel called upon to give public readings? Mrs. Yelverton read, and she was a type of a numerous class. Mrs. Bigelow-Taylor-Montgomery was lately announced for the rostrum, and now we hear of Mrs. Adelaide Goodrich, whose name has been so long before the public in connection with the Divorce Court, and who is engaged in giving a series of dramatic readings and costume recitals. Evidently the course of true love, when it runs rough, runs directly to public gab. Mrs. Goodrich, we are told by a London paper, "looked the proud, scornful beauty to the life," which possibly accounts for her intimacy with the Divorce Court.

—Olive Logan, the queen of the rostrum, as some of her more enthusiastic admirers entitle her, is filling her appointments this season with "Nice Young Men." Last year her favorite theme was "Girls." She is to lecture in Rochester December 6th. The local editor of the Union, who has probably received Olive's photograph, and doubtless imagines himself one of the "nice young men," she is coming to talk about, records his impressions as follows:

"Miss Logan is now pretty generally known to the public, as a brilliant lecturer, an accomplished scholar, and withal a woman of transcendant personal beauty. She is not the order of blue-stockinged angels who flutter about the country disseminating their peculiar views of impracticable and utopian schemes. No person, however fastidious, will be ashamed to tell that he or she has heard Olive Logan."

—Mrs. St Clair, in her lecture on the "Mormons at Home," delivered last week in St. Joseph, Mo., endeavored to excite the sympathy of her audience in behalf of Brigham Young. She said, 'Suppose, gentlemen, you were set down in the middle of twenty wives, all depending upon you for support, what would you do?" There was silence for a moment, and then a young fellow roared out, 'I would do the best I could.

Oil News.

PARKER OIL FIELD—PRODUCTION AND LOCATION.—Out of forty-eight districts, Parkers Landing stands at the head, the daily production being 3,152 barrels, or 370 barrels more than double the amount of any other district. West Hickory, Warren county, stands next on the list, the report showing a daily production of 1,391 barrels. Last Friday a well called the Casino well on the Parker and Thompson farm, situated between the Martin farm and this place, was struck. This well is owned by Ripple and Moorehead, and is considered a two hundred barrel well. It was drilled "dry" through six inch casing, the depth is one thousand and sixty-five feet, and struck oil at only one foot in the third sand. It flowed to the height of twenty feet above the derrick until got under control. Another, on South Bear Creek, one mile from Martinsburg, was struck the same day, owned by Robert Campbell, C. D. Angel and Lambing Brothers. This is a "wild cat" well and opens a "big thing" for the old farmers in the vicinity, each one thinking himself a newly fledged millionaire. When first struck it flowed oil eighty feet high, which took fire from the engine, burning derrick, engine house, etc. The derrick was replaced the next day, well tubed the next and on the next was producing one hundred and ten barrels.—G. W. B. in Erie Dispatch.

The S. Mitchell No. 5, on the Huff farm was completed to-day, and there is nine hundred feet of oil in the hole. It will be one of the best wells yet struck in this vicinity.—Derrick, 25th.

The Hiram Neely well, near Petersburgh, is not thoroughly tested, as the sand still cuts the cups, but it is actually producing 40 barrels a day, and indicates a much larger production.

The towns of Foxburg, East Foxburg, Petersburg, Antwerp City and several other towns in Richland township are springing up like mushrooms, but with a prospect of much longer life.

A new well on the Fox land, on the Clarion river, below the Grass Flats, has just been tested, and is producing about sixty barrels. The well on the Culmer farm is now yielding about eighty barrels per day. A well on the Shoup farm is nearly as large, and the Ashbach well is larger still. These, with several wells producing from ten to twenty barrels per day, and no dry holes, establish Petersburgh as the best oil field now known. The sand rock is thick, giving indications of a rich and lasting territory.

A new well belonging to Gailey and others, near the old Gailey well, on the Grass Flats, Clarion river, was tubed and tested on Thursday, and is now producing forty barrels per day.—Clarion Democrat.

The Insurance Situation—List of Solvent Companies.

The Chicago fire has, at last advices, proved more disastrous to the companies represented there than at first reported. The result of which is that many of the older companies have been obliged to retire from business until a full and detailed report may be had of their liabilities, and in consideration of these facts I have at a great expense and labor secured a few more companies not represented in Chicago, and who lose nothing by the fire, and by this means I am enabled to offer to my patrons and the public reliable and safe insurance at adequate rates. The companies now represented, whose capital and assets remain firm and unimpaired are:

To the Ladies of Titusville and vicinity.

Health, happiness, prosperity, and the enjoyment of every blessing is what you are entitled to in this world. Hence you are particularly interested in anything calculated to acquire this desideratum. Therefore your attention is particularly directed to PROF. LUPKINS'S PATENT CHAMPION SEWING MACHINE TREADLE, the object of which is to meet a demand universally felt by every woman of America. It is an improvement in the Sewing Machine Treadles now commonly in use, which the production of the CHAMPION TREADLE has effectually accomplished, although innumerable professionals have attempted the same thing and signally failed. The CHAMPION TREADLE gives alternate movement to the feet, relieving a constant strain on a particular set of muscles—caused by the use of the old style Sewing Machine Treadles—and calling into action the natural and stronger muscles of the feet and limbs, producing an easy, natural and uniform motion, thereby enabling an operator to run a machine day in and day out, without any fatigue to the mind or body, and effectually preventing the pains and aches so common with female sewing machine operators, particularly married women. To all those who have a desire to prolong their natural life, and prevent the pains and aches so common with the women of the present generation, who use sewing machines, we cheerfully and conscientiously recommend the use of PROF. LUPKINS' PATENT SEWING MACHINE TREADLE. If you wish to test the merits of the CHAMPION TREADLES, send your address to H. W. BALDWIN, Titusville Post Office, and the two die will be attached to your machine, free of charge, till you are satisfied with the trial. nov24 1w

JUST OUT!

THE NEW

Wheeler & Wilson SEWING MACHINE.

THE WHEELER & WILSON Sewing Machine Company, having had eighteen years experience in manufacturing and selling Sewing Machines and employing the ablest mechanical talent in this country and in Europe now offer to the public confident that it possesses all the advantages which experience has shown to be essential to a Perfect Sewing Machine.

The principle is the same as in the old Wheeler & Wilson Machine, but changes have been made which increase its efficiency, while at the same time less care and skill are required in its management. Seams are created with ease. The work guided with scarcely an effort. Nearly double its former power. No under-tension to manage. Every joint can be tightened as fast as it wears.

We recommend our customers in the country to purchase their machines direct from our Agents, as the price is the same at our offices, and they can thus secure, at their own homes, the necessary instructions. Agents wanted

[COMPLIMENTARY]

Understanding that Mrs. C. B. Evans, of this city, is about to take up her professional residence in Auburn for a time, I take great pleasure in stating that I have known Mrs. Evans for some years as a Daguerreotypist and Photographer who ranks among the first in the world for artistic taste and skill. I sincerely hope that she may be as successful at her new residence as she has been in this city.

ANOTHER

Valuable Invention

For Oil Wells.

CATES' PATENT

BACK SUCTION PREVENTIVE,

Which entirely prevents the ingress of air into oil wells while the tubing is being drawn.

It is a well-known fact to oil well operators that upon wells where gas pumps are used, it is necessary to preserve as nearly a perfect vacuum as possible, and that no air should be let into the well at any time when it can possibly be avoided, consequently whenever the tubing is drawn from a well, it is the cause of great injury to it, as the stuffing box being then necessarily opened, the air immediately rushes back between the tubing and casing into the well, going into the oil rock and gas veins, and consequently causing the oil and gas to rush back to a great distance. It almost always takes several days after pumping is resumed for a well to be brought back to its former condition, and oftentimes it takes several weeks, and quite frequently wells have been almost completely ruined by the air being thus let in while drawing tubing.

The Back Suction Preventive is attached to the stuffing box, and works in such a way that it completely shuts up the space between the stuffing box and tubing so effectually that not a particle of air can get through it any time while the tubing is being drawn and replaced.

It supplies a want long felt and is without question one of the most valuable inventions of the day to those engaged in the oil production business. No well should be without one, as it oftentimes saves ten times its cost by once using.

It is manufactured and for sale at the Foundry and Machine Shop of
